

European Nations Clamp Embargo on Fighters for Spanish Groups Today

Long Term Jail Sentences in Some Cases Will Take Effect at Midnight Tonight; 27 Nations are Pledged.

RED STRATEGY

On Battle-front Near Madrid Loyalists Attempt to Divert South-eastern Pressure.

London, Feb. 20 (AP).—The nations of Europe clamped down an embargo on fighting men for Spain today to halt the menace of "the little world war" of civil conflict converting the continent into its battlefield.

Even while they timed their stringent measures—long term jail sentences in some cases—to take effect at midnight tonight, 27 nations were pledged to impose a workable war blockade by land and sea around the peninsula by March 6.

Portugal alone of the members of the international non-intervention committee remained to be converted entirely but informed observers felt her objections to foreign observers on her soil would be overcome over the week-end.

This last stumbling block was expected to be met by a compromise allowing British spectators to see that Portugal keeps her pledge not to send arms or guns to her war-torn neighbor.

Italian Action

The Italian ban on volunteers, announcing "penal measures" as punishment, was published officially last night.

Czechoslovakia took radical measures to prevent her nationals from fighting in Spain. A bill to enforce Belgian non-intervention was put up to the cabinet council yesterday.

The Hungarian cabinet prohibited by decree recruiting by either side of the struggle under threat of severe punishment and the Irish Free State passed to second reading a bill to the same effect.

Germany already has outlawed volunteers along with France and Britain, and recalcitrant Portugal has pledged herself to the principle of non-intervention.

Naval Cordons

The naval cordons will be drawn about the peninsula by the combined navies of Britain, France, Russia, Germany, Italy and Portugal, dividing the Spanish waters into patrol zones as follows:

Bay of Biscay—France and Portugal.

Northwest coast—France and Russia.

Southern coast—France, Russia, Britain and Portugal.

Eastern coast—Italy and Germany.

Balearic Isles—France.

The final draft of the Anglo-Portuguese compromise frontier plan is expected by Monday when the sub-committee of the six most interested nations meets.

Should Portugal balk, France and Britain were expected to insist the naval blockade should be extended to Portugal as well, as a guarantee that war contraband would not flow across her borders.

Such a step, however, was believed in some quarters only a last desperate move as Germany and Italy, co-sponsors with Portugal in diplomatic support of the insurgents, were felt certain to object.

Portugal's agreement to let her traditional friend—Great Britain—take over alone the supervision of her frontiers was felt to be the only safe solution.

The British observers will be responsible directly to the British foreign office and any violations would be reported to the non-intervention committee through the government.

Loyalist Strategy

Madrid, Feb. 20 (AP).—Government troops feinted at insurgent siege lines northwest of the city in an effort to divert fierce pressure today on her southeastern defenses, in preparation for renewed government assaults.

The government's sudden thrust to the northwest drove insurgents from coveted heights near Aravaca, only a few miles from Madrid, and brought a concentration of insurgent troops there along the Coruna highway.

A government attack was expected to determine whether the maneuver had substantially weakened insurgent pressure on the Jarama river front to the southeast and on other sectors of the besieged semi-circle about the city.

It is known, however, that insurgents were concentrating both on the northwest and the southeast.

A four-hour battle yesterday prevented the government victory on the northwest. Insurgents were forced from Las Puercas Hill and other heights from which they had dominated the Coruna road.

The victory placed the government in position to capture a railway station, Aravaca and the Coruna highway. The government formerly operated an armored train over this line.

Naval Board Begins Its Inquiry in Ship Blast

San Pedro, Calif., Feb. 20 (AP).—A naval board of inquiry opened investigation today of the gun blast aboard the demilitarized battleship Wyoming which cost seven lives during maneuvers off San Clemente Island Thursday.

No blame could be placed on any member of the training ship's personnel, the inquest board announced last night.

Its findings were made available to the inquiry board today.

Chief Gunner's Mate J. C. Berry, who was standing behind Capt. Edward Trumble, one of those killed, said the "warhead" or detonator of a five inch shell exploded, not the 30 pound powder charge as first reported.

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP).—The second Roosevelt administration, a month old today, has encountered a stormy beginning compared with that memorable start of the first term in 1933.

The President has emphasized his objectives in repeated messages to Congress much as he did four years ago—basic economic and agricultural reforms, long-time planning, action rather than delay.

But whereas his leadership was accepted readily in the aftermath of the 1933 banking crisis, now the program is jamming up behind differences over the one issue:

Should the Supreme Court be enlarged to foster what Mr. Roosevelt called "a liberal interpretation" of the constitution?

The President, who refers to himself at times as a quarterback, generally was believed to have a fairly clear field at the capitol when Congress convened.

Little Opposition at First

With little opposition Congress quickly banned arms shipments to Spain, extended the Reconstruction Corporation's lending powers and presidential authority over the dollar, enacted the $500,000,000 relief deficiency appropriation, and provided $50,000,000 for seed loans.

With little opposition Congress quickly banned arms shipments to Spain, extended the Reconstruction Corporation's lending powers and presidential authority over the dollar, enacted the $500,000,000 relief deficiency appropriation, and provided $50,000,000 for seed loans.

The House voted to extend the reciprocal tariff act. Administration leaders in the Senate have predicted similar action there.

On such matters, the last month had much in common with March, 1933. About all the President had to do to get authority then was to ask for it—power over banking, establishment of the Civilian Conservation Corps and reduction of expenditures by $40,000,000 a year.

With his second term at hand, however, the question was how social legislation could be drafted to conform to the constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court.

Mr. Roosevelt said only, "Means must be found to adapt our legal forms and our judicial interpretation to the actual present national needs."

He recommended reorganization of the executive departments. There the program rested until in his inaugural address he spoke again of the need for fundamental social legislation.

No Clear Field.

Instead of a clear field, the President found himself tackling in his own party as well as among the Republicans, in the Senate, 29 are on record against him, 23 in support and 27 not committed.

Roosevelt Studies Program to Outlaw Wage, Hour Evils

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP).—Unimpeachable authorities disclosed today President Roosevelt is considering a flexible program to outlaw excessively low wages and long hours through revision of the fair trade practice and anti-trust laws.

Besides fixing mandatory wage and hour standards, the projected legislation would provide for a broad system of voluntary agreements under which business men could ban unfair and wasteful trade practices.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was emphasized, has not had time for a detailed study, but was reported to regard it favorably.

Officials said administration legal experts believe the program could be fitted into the present framework of the constitution and past Supreme Court rulings. If the President finally approves, they said, the court reorganization issue therefore need not delay its presentation.

Under the proposal, Congress would make it a violation of fair practice laws for industries engaging in interstate commerce to pay excessively low wages or work employees unduly long hours.

A new board would be created to formulate wage and hour standards for each industry. This board probably would be attached to the present federal trade commission.

It would fix the standards after industry-wide hearings, much as the old NRA codes were drafted. Its regulations, however, would be limited to wages and hours.

The labor standards, officials said, would be aimed entirely at elimination of sweatshop conditions. Among minimum standards would be abolition of child labor.

Collective bargaining would be relied on to provide for wage and hour standards above those prescribed by the board.

On complaint that the wage and hour regulations had been violated, either the board or the trade commission could issue a "cease and desist" order. After a hearing, fines or other penalties might be imposed.

The question of penalties has not been definitely settled but White House advisers were said to oppose jailing of violators.

Present activities of the trade commission in the trade agreement field might be transferred to the commerce department. The commission now merely gives assent or disapproval to fair trade agreements formulated voluntarily.

Food Opposes Court Change

Ways, Ga., Feb. 20 (AP).—Henry Ford joined today those opposing President Roosevelt's plan to increase the number of Supreme Court justices.

Wagon, Kan., Feb. 20 (AP).—Dr. Gammell declared two emergency hospitals in church basements were inadequate to cope with this city's health situation. He reported 13 persons seriously ill, and said he was unable to estimate the number of persons less seriously affected.

Oklahoma health authorities have said that dust itself does not cause disease but that it can aggravate respiratory weaknesses.

Windows of the basements were caulked to add in sealing them against the dust and blankets were used over doors.

The snow will do more good than rain, declared Bob Conklin, who operates a 1,500-acre wheat farm.

Conklin explained the snow if it comes slowly on the ground would melt in white rain would be apt to run off too quickly.

Farmers in the Panhandle plain are concerned about the action.

Rumors Persist New Store Will Succeed R. & G., Closing Soon

With the closing of the Rose and Gorman department store soon the rumor persists in town that negotiations are under way for the location of a new department store in Kingston. Several firms have been reported interested in locating in Kingston, but nothing definite apparently has been done.

One rumor which has gained wide circulation during the past few days is that negotiations are being carried on between a local real estate broker and a concern operating a store in a nearby city.

Inquiry was made by a Freeman reporter of Frank S. Hyatt, local real estate broker with offices at 277 Fair street. Mr. Hyatt said that he had been negotiating with a company for a client of his, and had some correspondence concerning the opening of a department store in the Wall street section, but at present nothing definite had been arrived at.

There has also been inquiry from another firm and Mr. Hyatt expressed an opinion that some agreement might be arrived at if the proposition offered here appeared favorable but he said at present the negotiations had only been of a preliminary nature. The property under consideration is in the uptown shopping center.

Some time ago, when it was learned that the Rose & Gorman store was to be disposed of there was begun a movement among a group of local people to form a syndicate and purchase the former Mitchell House property on North Front street at Fair street and erect there a modern building to house a department store. Subscriptions were pledged from a number of local people but the deal apparently fell through when the building was purchased by M. H. Herzog who is now reconstructing the building for use as a wholesale warehouse and storage plant for his hardware and plumbing supplies business.

Mr. Hyatt said he was not at liberty to discuss the plans now under way or to reveal the property which was being considered as the site for a store. Since notice of the sale of the Rose & Gorman store was made public he said he had received several inquiries relative to an opening here for a department store. He did not feel at this time able to reveal the firm with which he was negotiating since the deal had not advanced sufficiently to be publicly announced.

Will Probe Black Legion.

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP).—The La Follette civil liberties committee, strengthened by a new $40,000 appropriation, decided today to push its investigations into new fields—among them the Black Legion and kindred vigilante groups. Its three weeks' study of General Motors' far-reaching labor espionage system virtually was completed by the testimony of an auto worker, Arthur Dubuc, former Pinkerton under-cover operative.

Scaffold Collapse Investigated.

San Francisco, Feb. 20 (AP).—Collapse of a Golden Gate Bridge Construction scaffold, killing 16 workmen, was investigated today by the state industrial accident commission.

A previous investigation by a coroner's jury brought a verdict of "failure to use certain equipment."

A state engineer testified that recommending bolts had been recommended but not installed before the accident.

Legionnaires Show High Enthusiasm, Roedell Is Praised

More than 100 Legionnaires attended the meeting of Kingston Post Friday night, taking the opportunity to inspect the Memorial Building recently renovated under the direction of Commander William T. Roedell.

Commander Roedell was given a rising vote of thanks by the Legion for the improvements made under his personal supervision, which have made the building into a more pleasant place for ex-servicemen to gather socially and for their meetings.

Announcement was made that the post has a membership of 629, highest in its history for the month of February. Lester Barth was made chairman of the membership committee last night and is set on bringing Ulster county one position higher to lead the state. Wyoming county is at the top now.

Resignation of Edmund Coughlin as athletic officer was accepted with regrets, and his efforts in the position commended. Robert C. Schuman was named to replace him.

The Legion, on request of families of ex-servicemen who die, will furnish firing squads, it was announced.

There were two guest speakers, Adjutant Clark of Lloyd Post, Highland, and Mrs. Ida Ashby, department secretary of the Legion Auxiliary, who praised the improvements to the building, especially those made to the ladies department, and presented Commander Roedell with a check of $50 for the post treasury.

John McKnight won the attendance prize but was not present to collect it. The amount was $4. At the next meeting it will be $8.

Sunday, February 21, open house will be observed by Kingston Post to give the public an opportunity to inspect the Memorial Building.

A Cheap Car—Dr. Elze

Campaign Against "Criminals"

Rafale, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP).—War veterans patrolling city streets here in a campaign against "criminals" and "mashers" declared today they are not concerned in "pulling up a big record of arrests."

They aim to chase these "criminals" of the streets," said Frederick T. Dyer, III, spokesman for members of the 14th Division Association.

A SWELL TIME—MUMPS FOR TWO

Slogan—"You Can Buy Anything in Kingston," Puts Grant's in Hole, but Energetic Manager Solves Problem

Several years ago the merchants of Kingston coined a slogan for Kingston which was in effect, "If you can buy it anywhere you can buy it in Kingston" and it may have been this slogan or it may have been the reputation of the W. T. Grant Company which brought to Kingston recently a most unusual order.

It was an order for a dozen chipmunks and the order came from the University of Syracuse where, the little chipmunks were wanted for experimental purposes.

When Manager M. E. Hunsinger received the order for a dozen chipmunks he scratched his head a moment and frowned, then a smile lighted his face and the mystery was solved. Some time ago the W. T. Grant Company had on display at the Wall street store a pair of chipmunks which were used for exhibition and advertising purposes. Apparently, deduced Mr. Hunsinger, someone has been visiting Kingston and saw the little animals sporting about in the cage and believed that Kingston was the home of all good chipmunks.

With the usual spirit of co-operation for which the store is noted Mr. Hunsinger, although he had no chipmunks in stocks, proceeded to fill the order. He learned that chipmunks could be purchased as a commercial commodity in California and he straightaway ordered 12 chipmunks to be delivered to the Kingston store. They were duly delivered and forwarded to the Syracuse University laboratory and the incident was a closed book.

Mr. Hunsinger casually mentioned the unusual order to a Freeman reporter this morning and in commonplace manner said this was only one of a group of exceptional orders which he was called upon from time to time to fill.

"If we have the merchandise in stock we ship it directly and if we don't have it in stock we know where we can get it," he commented.

Filibuster Possible But Not Probable in Senate Court Battle

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Members of both sides in the controversy over enlarging the Supreme Court agreed today there were sufficient Senate opponents to block action indefinitely if they chose filibustering tactics.

Administration leaders, however, expressed doubts that any group of senators, no matter how sizable, would be willing to prevent a vote. Roosevelt backers continued to predict victory. Opponents were not talking filibuster; they were after enough votes to beat court reorganization and declared they had almost enough.

Privately, however, foes of the President's program said they would talk long and hard to "educate" the nation on the issue. They were ready to combat any move to curb debate by cloture, that infrequently used Senate procedure for forcing a vote.

Despite administration unwillingness to face the possibility of filibuster, it was this possibility which has given rise this week to talk of compromise.

President Roosevelt, according to those who have talked with him, is in no mood to compromise. His spokesmen have said that nothing yet promised would meet the problem.

Believe Scheme Possible.

Some, however, said they believed if some scheme could be found to accomplish his aims without a constitutional amendment that would win over some of the opponents, he might accept it.

Secretary Ickes expressed the administration's opposition to an amendment in addressing the Texas legislature last night.

"The child labor amendment has been knocking at the doors of legislators 13 years and hasn't been adopted yet," he said.

"Didn't the people vote for the New Deal during the next four years? Are they willing to wait 20?"

The court's issue reached the Senate floor in general debate yesterday for the first time although the bill is not yet before it. Senators Robinson of Arkansas and Ashurst of Arizona—Democratic chieftains—supported the President's recommendations as mild and logical.

Opponents Speak.

The case of the opponents was voiced last night by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) in a radio address charging the administration was trying to "pack" the court.

"If there must be dictatorship in America," he said, "I nominate the American people."

Wheeler, saying he spoke as a liberal who had been the progressive party candidate for vice-president in 1924, urged adoption of a constitutional amendment giving Congress power by a two-thirds vote to reverse Supreme Court decisions.

Representatives Cox (D-Ga.) and Guyer (D-Kans.) also criticized the program in addresses last night.

While Representative Hill (D-Wash.)

led it as constitutional, democratic and American.

Question Rosoff

On Redwood Death

Teaneck, N. J., Feb. 20 (AP)—A wealthy New York subway builder, Samuel Rosoff, was wanted for questioning and offered to appear today in connection with the slaying of R. Norman Redwood, 52, a labor union leader, which authorities linked with labor union troubles in Manhattan.

Returning to Manhattan early today from Atlantic City, Rosoff said he would appear at Hackensack (New Jersey) court later in the morning for questioning by County Prosecutor John J. Breslin.

Redwood, business manager of a subway workers' union in New York, was fatally wounded by a fusillade of bullets fired from an automobile as he sat in front of his home here last night. The other car sped away.

The prosecutor said he was told the life of Redwood had been threatened if he did not call off a strike in New York.

Joseph Fay, president of the Hotel Engineers' Union of Newark, would also be questioned, Breslin said. Meanwhile he held without bail as material witnesses two associate officers of New York Local 342 of the Compressed Air, Tunnel and Subway Workers' Union, identified as Austin Muldoon and James Lane.

Second Term Has Stormy Opening

Federal judges are overburdened and those over 70 who decline to retire should be assisted by appointment of younger additional judges. This would make possible enlarging the Supreme Court from nine to 15 justices.

Some hitherto strong Roosevelt supporters, although backing the rest of his judiciary program, denounced the Supreme Court change as bad in principle, dictatorial.

While the argument waxed warmer, the President submitted the report of his drouth committee, saying a new economy must be developed in drouth-afflicted territory.

Then followed recommendations for federal and state aid for tenants to become farm owners and for a system of crop insurance.

"Most Americans believe that our form of government does not prohibit action on behalf of those who need help," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Consulted Individuals

Instead of conferring with groups as on those March evenings in 1932, the President consulted individual senators and representatives on the court issue. They reported his attitude substantially as follows: We want to go ahead with business, labor and farm legislation, but a narrow construction of the constitution bars our path. An amendment would take too long, could be prevented by 13 states. This method for realizing our objectives is constitutional. Have you anything better to suggest?

In 1933, members of Congress reported their mail was all on the side of the President.

In 1937, some members say the mail is predominantly against him on the court question; others say it is with him. Still others apparently are waiting in the expectation that public sentiment has yet to crystallize decisively.

Farm and Home Bureaus

Shokan

Shokan, Feb. 20—The Shokan Home Bureau held an all-day meeting Thursday at the residence of Mrs. Sam Friedman of Ashokan. Miss Everette Parsons, county demonstration agent, at this meeting taught the first lesson of the local bureau's current project—the making of tailor-made dresses. Miss Parsons first discussed the color and texture of materials, illustrating her talk with samples, of which she had brought a large assortment to the meeting. Numerous patterns were looked over by the members and several decisions were made as to individual preferences and needs in the selection of designs.

After the conclusion of the lesson it was decided that, at a future meeting, a sewing machine representative would be invited to demonstrate the various attachments used in hem-stitching, gathering, etc. The chairman then asked that the members either bring their donation books for the bureau library to the next meeting or leave them at Mrs. Nathan Greenberg's in Ashokan. There was some discussion as to which of the projects the members enjoyed most and which were favored for further study next year. The date and place of the next meeting, at which the cutting and fitting of dresses will be taken up by the members, was tentatively put at March 4, in the Shokan Reformed Church basement.

Those attending Thursday's meeting were as follows: Miss Everette Parsons, instructor; Mrs. Nell Windrum, chairman; Mrs. Herman Weidner, Mrs. Sam Friedman, Mrs.

George Sickler, Mrs. Clyde Winchell, Miss Radie McCauley, Mrs. Floyd Merrihew, Mrs. Edward Every, Mrs. James Burgher, Mrs. Nathan Greenberg and Miss Margaret Windrum. Mrs. Charles Richter was present as a guest.

There was much interest shown in the various topics as likes and dislikes, value of clothes and do clothes express personality. Lively discussions were held on some parts of the lesson, such as "what attracts you to your friends," the effects of lipstick, powder and rouge on yourself and your associates, and do "you wear your clothes for comfort or show?"

These were 17 members and three visitors present: Mrs. J. Forman, Mrs. G. Adams, Mrs. R. Everett, Mrs. G. Parish, Mrs. William Hookey, Miss M. Lachmann, Mrs. D. Parish, Mrs. P. Krom, Mrs. H. Brink, Mrs. G. Roosa, Mrs. T. Munson, Mrs. William Powers, Mrs. D. Morehouse, Mrs. M. Lewis, Mrs. Earl Sagendorf, Mrs. Edward Sagendorf, Mrs. F. Tubbs, Mrs. P. Linker, Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. K. Parish.

A business meeting was held after the lesson. Minutes of previous meetings were read. Reports were made on the contribution of money, food and clothing given the Red Cross by the unit and also the canvassing of the neighborhood. A report was also given on the card party which was enjoyed by the members at the home of Mrs. Brink.

Refreshments were enjoyed and all left thanking the hostess for a pleasant afternoon.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Herman Schuler on the Neighborhood road Wednesday, February 24. This is the third lesson on grooming and will be on hair waving. All members are asked to bring to the meeting a mirror, comb, bobby pins and hair waving lotion. The local leader, Mrs. P. Krom, will have Mrs. George Adams and Mrs. William Powers assisting her.

MEXICAN "COMMUNISM"

It is easy to get a wrong slant on Mexican "radicalism", particularly with such a thoroughgoing Communist as Leon Trotsky now living in that country as a welcome guest. Mexico under President Cardenas is frankly Socialist, and some things that are being done, especially the seizure of large estates and their partition among the peasants, certainly suggest the Russian system.

The fact is, however, as Columbus Howard Vincent O'Brien points out in a Mexican tour, that "the communistic trend dates from a far more ancient model." Mexico is not really Spanish so much as Aztec or Indian. "The Indian society has always been communal, if not communistic, and the economic program of the present government is an outgrowth of something that was old long before Trotsky and Lenin were heard of."

The Spanish conquerors seized the Indian lands and divided them up into great estates for themselves. The new system survived when Mexico became independent; there was still a ruling and owning class. The Mexican revolution which ousted President Diaz in 1911 and had as one of its main purposes a redistribution of the land and re-assumption of mineral rights which had been public under the old plan. Now, after a quarter-century of the new order, Mexico is at last getting around to a bold assertion of the ancient principle.

It is hard on American owners. Those who acquired Mexican properties honestly and have operated them in good faith should be paid for them. But the attendant facts have to be recognized.

COMMON TONGUES.

A college professor, recently back in America from a year's study in a Chinese University, reports widespread study of English there. When a native of one province wishes to make himself clearly understood to a native of another, she says, he speaks in English. That is, if both have attended Chinese public schools, where English is now a required course.

In a current magazine article of Germany one reads that young and old, "in many walks of life," are attending English classes in the large cities and even in many of the small provincial towns. The government requires all railroad conductors to learn English. So it goes, almost throughout the world. American tourists, American movies and American "successes" are largely responsible for the present interest in English.

Well, the language interest is mutual. Americans are studying foreign languages as never before. They have added to the more familiar French and German other European languages, particularly Spanish, Italian and Russian. Language classes in women's clubs are now as popular as bridge. Many adult education groups offer courses in almost any language for which there is a demand.

This is a good thing, even if few such pupils become proficient speakers of the language they study. It is almost impossible to study a language without learning something of the people whose speech it is. When we can all talk to each other, more or less easily, we ought to understand each other better.

FOREIGN TRADE

Sir George Paish, famous British economist, is telling Americans about the advantages of foreign trade. He says:

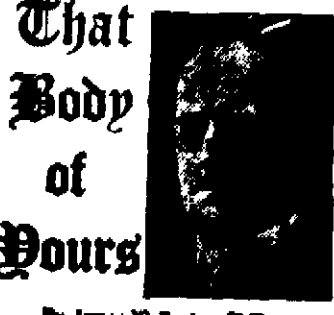

Let us promote the policy of the good neighbor all over the world. A single nation can no longer be self-sufficient. If nations continue each trying to save itself without regard to the others, there will be a complete breakdown of trade, and most of the people of the earth will starve. Any nation that blocks trade will be guilty of the disaster which will follow. A century ago a nation could be self-sustaining. But not now. Every country needs the world as a buyer and a seller. Unless you can sell your wheat, cotton, pork and machinery, how will your people live? It sounds reasonable. The nations undoubtedly are starving each other nowadays by refusing to buy from each other, and thus being unable to sell to each other. More active international trade, more buying and selling among each other, would enable all the trading nations to make a better living, exchanging raw materials for finished products and vice versa. And that would tend to prevent war, because sane people don't want to kill good customers. Statesmen of all nations seem to know this. But getting them to practice it is another matter. They all haggle over petty trading privileges, try to take small advantages of each other, and so keep themselves poor.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY.

If, as reported lately, Mexican police in the state of Vera Cruz are raiding church services in private homes, they are playing with fire. A fourteen-year-old girl is said to have been fatally shot in the course of such a raid at Orizaba, in the state of Vera Cruz. The natural response of the local population was to gather in mobs which broke into long-closed churches, rang their bells and demanded a renewal of church services. Apparently the priests were not responsible for this, it was done by the people themselves.

Religion is so deeply ingrained in human nature that it cannot be destroyed either by institutional abuses or political persecution. Mexico will find sooner or later that religious liberty is not only the decent thing but the only sensible and practical thing.

JAUNDICE

You have likely met friends or acquaintances suffering from jaundice who tell you that during a spell of mild weather they had put on light underwear; the weather turned suddenly cold and because the abdomen was not kept warm enough the attack of jaundice had occurred.

Strange as it seems this chilling of the abdomen is all that is necessary to cause symptoms in those with the tendency to jaundice.

Simple catarrhal jaundice occurs because the tube or duct carrying bile from the liver and gall bladder to the small intestine gets partly blocked because its lining gets inflamed. When any surface of the body—lining of the nose, throat, or bronchial tube—gets irritated and inflamed, liquid pours out to carry away whatever is causing the irritation.

What often happens when there are sudden changes of weather is that the upper end of the small intestine gets chilled and then inflamed; this inflammation in turn inflames the bile duct or tube carrying bile and instead of flowing freely into the intestine some of it is absorbed into the blood and carried to all parts of the body. The bile carried to the skin gives it its yellowed or jaundiced appearance.

There is usually no temperature with simple catarrhal jaundice, but there is prostration; entire loss of appetite; nausea; often vomiting; there is usually constipation but sometimes diarrhoea; the head feels dull, but real headache may be present; tongue coated; bad taste in mouth and bad breath. The stool soon became clay colored, showing lack of bile. The jaundice usually lasts two to four weeks. The old treatment of calomel and salts is still used. Liquid foods and avoidance of fat foods—cream, milk, butter, egg yolks—is diet treatment.

While jaundice or yellowness of the skin may be due to such simple causes as chilling, overeating, over-exposure to sun, or to a more serious condition, it must be remembered that more serious conditions may be present and be causing the jaundice. There may be a gall stone blocking the duct, hardening of the entire lining, cancer, or other conditions present. Therefore in every case of jaundice a physician should be consulted because in serious "blockage," early operation is necessary. Delay of four or five days before operating greatly increases the danger to life.

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: A pistol cracks in Anne Phelps' studio, killing Count Anton Vronski, who had been blackmailing her with love letters. Anne, Clara Bigelow and Karsanoff, the glamorous dancer, are nearby. With the help of Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, Anne and Bigelow eliminate all suspects except Karsanoff. Finally the dancer admits she shot the Russian and tells how she slew her father and brother in the revolution and took the latter's name, Karsanoff, after the shock, ransacked the "count's" room, taking her family jewels and Anne's letters.

Chapter 41 Trailing The Mink

BACKSTAGE, from the stage door to Karsanoff's dressing room, a surging crowd advanced to greet and congratulate her. She had scored an enormous success before a capacity audience in which the social celebrities of the moment had been well represented.

Anne and Bigelow and Austrelitz, fighting their way through, found her standing in a bowler of floral offerings. She had had no chance to remove her make-up. Her lips and cheeks were still painted brilliantly; her eyes were darkened and her lashes heavily beaded; her hair was smoothed back until it shone and surrounded by the Russian crown of jade and pearls. And she still wore the long jade and pearl earrings from her last dance. But she had exchanged her costume for a ruby velvet dressing gown that had a big collar and wide sleeves of ermine. She had never looked more exotic and glamorous.

"You came after all?" she cried, seizing the hands Anne extended. "I don't expect you to come!"

"Why not?" asked Anne. Karsanoff shrugged. "I have been longing for years to see you dance!"

"And you were not disappointed?" asked Karsanoff wistfully.

"I never imagined anyone could dance like that," answered Anne simply. "It was hard to believe you were real."

Karsanoff smiled. "You are very good to say it. One is never sure. One never quite believes it!"

"But Madame—"

"You were marvelous!"

"Too divine!"

A babel of voices protesting, praising enthusiastically from the crowd, she had abandoned to greet them.

"You have made a sensational success," Austrelitz assured her. "Tomorrow's papers will convince you of that. I have never seen a New York audience so enthusiastic!"

"That is good," beamed Karsanoff. "But what makes me even happier is that you three have come. I am grateful. Tonight I was thinking that it would be perfect—"

"perfect if I could die suddenly and without pain during the last curtain call. I was almost wishing it. But life is not like that, is it? Always, there must be the anti-climax. We manage so much better in the theater."

Mariushka, in severe black and white, who stood sentinel at the door, called appealingly, "Madame!" as a new group of admirers crowded into the little room.

"Yes, in a moment!" called Karsanoff. And turning back to Anne and Bigelow and Austrelitz, she said, "You are going to Madge's? Perhaps we shall meet there. If not?"

"We will see you soon," promised Anne. "I am coming to see you."

"We've Found The Woman"

KARSANOFF smiled and turned to greet the others who were impatiently waiting. Anne and Bigelow and Austrelitz forced their way out. In the corridor outside they met Woody Taylor leaning against the wall. He was looking at the swarms of people crowding in with a scowl to his eyes. A cigarette hung from one corner of his lips. His hat was pulled down well over his eyes and his white tie was a little crooked. He had very evident been drinking. And he evidently didn't see them or he was in no condition to recognize them.

Mirabelle Boney with Chest Harrison and Ledward and Tommy Tuttle were further along in the line. They for the practice of gynecology and obstetrics. Dr. Hyams is a graduate of Syracuse University and Medical College.

Clarence Phillips and son are getting out wood from one of the lots east of the Ridge Road.

Miss Betty Knickerbocker has returned to her home in Peekskill after spending several weeks at Long Meadow Farm.

Local residents who keep their sheds during the week are complaining of gasoline thieves.

Fred Reiter, Salvation Army adjutant and one of Kingston's leading philatelists, was numbered among the recent callers in the village.

Travelers to the county seat Wednesday were sorely surprised to find workmen filling in the chock-holes in the road below Stony Hollow. There are hundreds of these holes, many of them in the north reservoir boulevard pavement, this winter. Locally, several of the back roads also are in bad condition, due to the alternate freezing and thawing which makes for deep ruts in the shale pavements.

WASHINGTON—Don't always be satisfied with what you read in "The Congressional Record."

Take this, for instance: Senator Russell of Georgia introduced an amendment to the first deficiency bill designed to prohibit WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins from filling executive posts within a state by officials from other states.

"In some of the states," explained Russell, "there has been an unreasonable policy on the part of the works progress administration. Oftentimes, at the expense of the government, they have sent people into states from other states to take many of the more attractive supervisory positions. I do not accept the implication that there is a state of this union which does not have within its borders citizens of sufficient integrity and ability to carry on."

Senator Barkley of Kentucky replied:

"I presume the object is to bar anybody, regardless of his qualifications or the need for his services, who may be brought in to a regional office from outside of the state in which the office is located. If that is the object of the amendment, I am opposed to it."

In Other Words

IF RUSSELL had said what he really was thinking, it would have been something like this:

"The trouble is that Hopkins sent to Georgia a lot of social-minded case workers who didn't understand the relationship between the race down there. Now you just can't go down to Georgia and treat black Jake Jones the same way you would white Foster Hawtry. It won't work, and anybody who thinks it will simply has no place in Georgia."

Also, if Senator Barkley had really cut loose, he would have said something like this:

"Now, Dick, you know as well as I do that what you are all mad about is that Hugh B. Fleece from Kentucky was sent down to Atlanta as regional director of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, and you thought the job ought to have gone to a Georgian. Butshaw, Dick, Kentucky is in the same region as Georgia, and he has as much right to the job as anybody."

Woodland Wonders

The "B" assembly students were treated to a rare gem of educational entertainment Thursday morning when Prof. Floyd E. Carlson of the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University, presented his illustrated lecture on "Woodland Wonders." Prof. Carlson emphasized his talk on forestry by the showing of vividly colored slides beautifully depicting the woodlands of America.

Aided by the illustrations, the state college representative outlined the history of the American forest lands and described the ravages that wasteful methods had wreaked on the timber country. Preparation of the timber for commercial usage and scientific care and treatment of the woodlands were described in detail to the interested student body. The talk, enhanced by a humorous vein, was well received and the students responded with well merited applause as Prof. Carlson concluded his description of the wonders of the woodlands. Carl Studer, high school stage manager, operated the pictorial apparatus during the course of the lecture.

Home Nursing

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
 Women have always been the nurses of the world, and so long as the human body is susceptible to disease and injury there will be work for nurses. And it is not only the trained nurse who is called upon for this kind of service. Practically every woman at some time in her life is faced with the problem of tending the sick.

Time was when mothers handed the lore of the sick-room down to their daughters. But when the professional nurse arose, clinics and hospitals multiplied and doctors became available for most of the world, the necessity for such instruction lessened. Moreover, much of the home school of medicine and nursing became out-dated. The rising generation laughed at "old wives' cures," and in its eagerness for the most modern theories, threw overboard all that it might have learned from the school of experience.

If girls will not or cannot learn from their mothers, some other means of teaching the rudiments of nursing and caring for the sick should be found. The first aid which the Scouts teach is not enough, nor does it reach a large enough number of people.

It is not always possible to put the sick person in a hospital. There often come times when nurses are not available, and most family budgets do not stretch to such a luxury.

Sewing and cooking are still taught at school, and so is hygiene. Nursing requires a more elaborate equipment, but some means should be found for including so essential a course in every girl's training. Even if she never marries or has a family to rear, she will find the ability to be of use in the sick-room or at the scene of an accident an invaluable asset.

YOUR INCOME TAX

DEDUCTION FOR DEPRECIATION

The revenue act provides for "a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence." For convenience, such allowance usually is referred to as depreciation.

In claiming a deduction for depreciation several fundamental principles must be observed. The deduction actually used in trade, business, profession, and to improvements on real property, other than property used by the taxpayer as his personal residence. In general, it applies to the taxpayer's capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc.—the cost of which cannot be deducted as a business expense.

A lawyer, doctor or other professional man may not charge off as a current expense the cost of a library used wholly in his profession, this being a capital expenditure, but he may deduct an allowance for depreciation based upon the useful life of the library. If part of a professional man's residence is used by him for office purposes, a proportionate amount of the depreciation sustained may be deducted, based generally on the ratio of the number of rooms used for such purposes to the total number of rooms in the building. The same principle applies if a taxpayer rents to others a portion of his residence. Under such conditions, however, the taxpayer must include in his gross income the rentals received.

ACCORD

Accord, Feb. 19.—Wallo riding down hill on February 11, George Green, Jr., fractured his arm and also suffered a badly sprained hand. However, this accident did not prevent him from attending school the next day as he did not want to break his record of attendance. Since September, 1934, the boy has not missed a day at school and has attended Sunday School regularly every Sunday for two years.

Mrs. L. M. Decker entertained Mrs. G. B. Marshall and Miss Edna Baker at dinner on Wednesday, February 17.

The Ladies' AM of the Methodist Church will serve a pancake supper at the church hall on Tuesday evening, March 2.

The Ladies' AM of the Methodist Church will serve their regular monthly dinner at the church hall on Thursday, February 23, at noon.

The following will be served: Ham and extra mashed potatoes, green beans, pickles, jelly, squash pie and coffee.

The Pastors' Grange will hold an evening of games at Howard Anderson's Grange on Wednesday evening, February 24.

If the prospect of gray hair and wrinkles spoils your enjoyment of a good dinner, why not get them started on the road to oblivion before you join the family at the table? As soon as you have transferred the food from the cooking utensils to the service dish, fill it with soapy water and let it soak. Trim it with egg, milk, and doughy substances should be soaked in cold water.

Monday — "Great Day"

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JACQUES

New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—Stock buyers raised their bids for selected steels and mines today while cashing in on many other issues lately in the climbing class.

Activity was pronounced in the first hour with an assortment of favorites getting up fractions to two points to new peaks for the recovery.

Selling later developed, however, and at the close the list was uneven. Transfers were around 1,500,000 shares.

Of prime interest to market followers were advices from Washington that President Roosevelt was considering outlawing excessively low wages and long hours through revision of the fair trade practice and anti-trust laws.

While brokers through trading circles exhibited a little more nervousness over possible new administrative moves on business legislation, it was pointed out that with Monday a holiday commission houses were not averse to taking home part of the gains which had piled up during the past several sessions.

Bonds were mostly hesitant and grains and cotton mixed.

Conspicuous forward share leaders were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Howe Sound, American Metal, American Smelting, International Nickel, American Zinc, Cerra de Pasco and Southern Pacific.

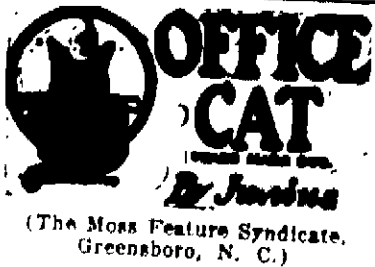

Crown Cork dropped about three points at the worst as more competition in the container group was envisaged. Others inclined to non-resistance were Westinghouse, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Goodrich, Goodrich, General Electric, American Telephone, Western Union, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Illinois Central.

In the matter of the steels Wall Street sources were predicting another price boost in this sector as imminent and that, accompanying the postponing of higher rates on finished products another wage increase may be announced.

Stalin shot a taxicab driver for reckless driving the other day, which is the best idea that has come out of Soviet Russia in many months.

Junior (looking out the window)—Oh, Mother dear, a motor car has just gone by as big as a barn. Mother—Junior, why do you exaggerate so terribly? I've told you forty million times about that habit and it doesn't do a bit of good.

Clipped from somewhere: "In the upswing of business now under way, they don't know which'll be the bigger factor—automobile trailers or air-conditioning for homes."

Wife—I just bought a set of Shakespeare. Husband (angrily)—How many times have I told you not to buy those foreign dices?

Grandfather cut firewood in the timber. Walked behind the wagon in zero weather. Carried lines over his shoulder and whipped his hands around his body to keep from freezing. Now the grandson thinks he is roughing it if he has to drive the sedan without a heater.

Here's a good, safety slogan for drivers of automobiles: "If you drink, DON'T DRIVE. If you drive, DON'T DRINK." If this rule was adhered to, there would be less fatal automobile accidents.

Pair Pedestrian—Have you a chimpodent here? Brushville Shopkeeper—Well, yes, we might have one left.

The shortest perceptible unit of time is the difference between the moment the traffic light changes and the boob behind you honks for you to go.

Read it or not: In the toy world comic strip characters far overshadow Mother Goose characters.

A Northerner, now in Florida, is quoted as having written a friend as follows: "Having a good time, wish I could afford it," which may be more truth than poetry.

Sammy—Daddy, do they raise political plums from seeds? Daddy (who never had one)—No, young man. Political plums are more often the result of a bit of clever grafting.

Our business in life is not to get ahead of other people, but to get ahead of ourselves.

Junior James—Does your Dad object to my staying so late? Sweet Suzanne—No. He says it serves me right for letting you come.

A good way to relieve the monotony of a job is to think up ways of improving it.

Woman—Why has your husband been summoned to court? Friend—I'm not quite sure, but I think a policeman held up his hand and Jack put his foot on the exasperator.

"Jack Benny's Writer Gets $1,200 A Week"—From Variety. "A very funny show... best repartee comes when Shirley Ross walks out on her agent and Jack Benny before the big broadcast. "If I had a gun," groans the agent, "I'd blow my brains out." To which Benny replies, "If I had any brains I'd blow you a gun."—Walter Winchell.

And if anybody dies laughing at that, it will be the fellow who got $1,200 a week to write it!

Mistress (to new maid)—Now, Madge, when you wait on the guests at dinner, please don't spill anything. Madge—No Ma'am. I won't say a word.

The world would get ahead faster if laziness were not so seldom fatal.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Lloyds of London". The rise of Lloyds to a power in the world through insurance based on marine risks is coupled with the rise of England to the greatest power on the sea and the picture at the Broadway is the story of two English boys whose destiny has much to do with the future of the British empire. One is Jonathan Blake, who becomes a power at Lloyd's, the other is Lord Admiral Nelson, who dies in his sea victory at Trafalgar. The setting is laid at the time of Napoleon when he was sweeping all before him on the continent and the protection of the British fleet was the only reason the Corsican didn't hold the crown of the British empire in his grasp. Also written into the script is a love story that eventually finds happiness for the hero and heroine of the drama. A combination of fact and imagination, this production is offered with all the fanfare and ballyhoo that marks a costly motion picture and 20th Century-Fox has outdone itself to make this show a standout movie triumph. A cast of thousands is featured with Madeleine Carroll, Freddie Bartholomew, C. Aubrey Smith, Virginia Field, Tyrone Power and Sir Guy Standing. Henry King directed. A well staged historical

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Three Smart Girls". Thirteen-year-old Deanne Durbin, sensation of the Eddie Cantor radio show, makes a decided hit in her first motion picture effort, thanks to a pleasing voice and an unusually gifted group of supporting players. Considered just another movie by its producers, the show created such a favorable response from the big time critics that Universal suddenly realized it had a hit picture without even knowing it. The story centers around a family all bawled up in domestic friction and the work of Charles Wagner, Ray Milland, Binnie Barnes and Nan Grey is especially standout. Little Miss Durbin sings effectively and the entire production possesses a charm hard to describe. Anyway, "Three Smart Girls" is recognized as one of the triumphs of the season, an enjoyable bit of entertainment well worth seeing.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Return of Sophie Lang" and "Law and Lead." A woman supposedly dead returns to life on a desperate mission in the first of the Orpheum features and Gertrude Michael ventures her way through a melodramatic way through a tense climax. "Law and Lead" is the associate play and it stars Rex Bell

New Ticket Issue Soon Ready for Play By St. Ursula Girls

So prompt has been the sale of tickets for the annual play of the Academy of St. Ursula, to be given Thursday evening, February 25, at St. Mary's Hall, that an extra printing has been ordered and those who have placed orders soon will receive them. A children's performance will be given at 4 p. m. on Tuesday, February 23, for those of the fifth grades and upward.

Great interest has been displayed over the fact that "Palms" traces the intense drama of the pagan era, with emphasis on the social significance of the period. In the choice of the play, which is for the annual scholarship fund, the high school girls followed the present trend of the theatre that of presenting history in entertaining dialogue. It is interesting to note that the swift tide of world events has captured literature, drama and music, and is reflected in secondary schools.

The action of "Palms" is dramatic throughout and the social phase bears a strong analogy to present unrest. Act one is divided into three scenes. The first is in the garden of the villa of the soldier Nemesius, where his blind little daughter, Claudia, talks with her nurse about her longing for her father. Nemesius, with true pagan grief, deserts his residence upon the death of his wife. He never has seen his daughter. Suddenly he returns, unobserved, marvels at the beauty of the child and, when her blindness is revealed, he resolves to restore her sight.

The second scene, in the palace of Nemesius at Rome, where father and daughter are living, reveals that Nemesius has called Eleazar Denna, famous Jewish doctor, to examine Claudia's eyes. The physician, who comes in the guise of a merchant so that the girl might not suspect, gives a hopeless verdict and the father is even more grief-stricken.

The third scene also is in the palace at Rome, where the daughter and Nemesius are living. The child, who has never realized her plight, overhears an aunt speaking of her misfortune. Whereupon Claudia becomes conscious of her handicap and gropes her way about.

Act two is in the catacombs. Nemesius, who has heard of the faith cures of the pope, endeavors to have the pontiff intercede for Claudia. In this act all the color, despair and hope of the early Christians is depicted, and is climaxed by the restoration of sight to Claudia.

Act three is in the villa garden, where the child cured, plays about with the poor children of the Christians. This causes some consternation, particularly in the child's nurse, who cannot understand the change, and there is an undercurrent of tragedy over the change from paganism to Christianity.

In the second scene Nemesius announces he has been betrayed and in the last scene Nemesius and Claudia are shown before a judge. Both have been condemned.
